ALLOWANCE

1. The amendment filed 2/16/2007 has been placed of record in the file.
2. Claims 41, 43, 47, 50, and 52-58 have been amended.
3. The claim objections have been withdrawn in view of the amendment.
4. The rejection of claims 50 and 52-58 under 35 U.S.C. 101 has been withdrawn in view of the amendment.
5. Claims 41, 43-50, and 52-58 are allowed.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 41 and 50 as amended distinguish themselves over the prior art by delineating a method or process for automatically generating data exchange schema data that allows the client and server to exchange data for a data processing object that is used to provide a remote processing service. With the current amendment, the applicant has clarified various aspects of the functionality of the system, including compiling source code to generate a data processing object when the data processing object is not stored in the web services library and executing the data processing object based on the reception of payload data that is received in a subsequent processing service request. Thus claims 41 and 50 show a patentable distinction over the prior art. Other important features of the method or process include automatically generating data exchange schema data when the source code file is compiled and storing this data in the web services library with the data processing object so that it may be used to provide web services for subsequent requesting clients. See also the applicant's remarks from page 11, line 9 through page 12, line 2 of the amendment filed 2/16/2007. Furthermore, the prior art gives no indication that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the applicant's invention to automatically generate data exchange schema data that allows the client and server to exchange data for a data processing object that is used to provide a remote processing service in the fashion presented in the independent claims.

Claims 43-49 and 52-58 are allowed due to their dependence on claims 41 and 50.

Any comments considered necessary by the applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
